DAY CARE OPERATORS WORKSHOP
TO BE HELD IN 3 MONTANA CITIES

MISSOULA--

A four-day training workshop for operators of day care homes and centers will be held in Helena, Great Falls and Billings September 9-12.

Mrs. Joan Christopherson, workshop director, who is director of the Family Life Education Program in the University of Montana home economics department, said the program will feature appearances in each of the three cities by Judith Cauman, an early child development specialist from New York City.

Also speaking will be Dr. Winfield S. Wilder, M.D., of Great Falls, and Jerry Thrush, a member of the staff of the Planning and Development Center at Montana State University, Bozeman.

Assisting Mrs. Christopherson in directing the workshop are Beth Bigej, director of the MSU Nursery School; Dr. Marjorie Lauson, a professor of early childhood education at Eastern Montana College, Billings; and the State Welfare Department and the Child Care Coordinating Committees in Helena and Missoula.

The workshop is financed by a grant to the University of Montana from the Childrens Bureau.
